

M· CHRISTOPHERVS OST-

VÄLDVS FOROPÄGANVS LECTO-

ri bene recteque sapere.

Ene hunc disputandi morem, qui multas hodie possidet Academias, institutum à veteribus testantur eruditissimi quicquid, ubi & dubitata & abstrusa ad trutinam atque examen reducuntur, in quo uerisimillima atque probata ex opinionibus in medium adductis reserantur. Proinde ne ego tam laudatæ consuetudini refragari uidear. Infrascriptas has, quæ dubitatæ à multis reperiuntur positiones, publicæ disputandas mihi persuasi. Nulla quidem ambitione, nullaque ostentatione ad uoluendum hoc sacram prouocatus: uerum omnium in hoc nostro gymnasio philosophantium gratia, quibus cum exerticium tam præclarum et celebre suscipiendum censuimus, in hanc harenam descendere placuit. Vnde alete, nostrosque conatus sedulos boni & quicquid consulite. Ex Museo nostro Ingolstadij die 5. Idus Augusti Anno post Christum natum 1542.

QVÆSTIO PRIMA EX PHILO.

V. Interioris alicuius sensus defectu, necessario sentiendi functio impediatur?

QVÆSTIO ALTERA EX MEdicinalibus decretis desumpta.

An sicut uita salus, ita & animantis periodus, quatuor primarum qualitatum temperamento distemperamentoque consistat.

QVÆSTIO TERTIA.

V. Quemadmodum ægrotantium in uictus ratione errata, uel etiam medici imperitia, importunæ pharmacorum ingurgitationes, prorsus circuitum ordinem cuertere, nouasque haud raro accessiones inducere, ita & demum crismorbique solutionem impedire opere pretium sit.

CONCLVSIONES PRIMÆ

Questionis.

1. Sensuum nostrorum (qui qualitatibus primarijs afficiuntur quatuor) lesione, imaginativa uidelicet corruppta &c. aut quacunque alia singulatim, perfecta haud fit sensatio.
2. Cum Auerroe quatuor ponere sensus interiores non inepte nobis uisum est.
3. Citius a frigido & calido, & humido & sicco, siquidem hæ qualitates passim existunt, sensuum interiorum defectus prouenire intelligimus.

CONCLVSIONES SECUNDE QVÆSTIONIS.

1. Elementa sunt quatuor, quoru[m] nomine corpora afficiuntur morbis, debilitata uero atque male affecta restituuntur.
2. Qualitatum excessus, causa mortis, temperies uero causa salutis, ac uita perseuerantie est.
3. A nimantis uita periodum, cum Galeno, in temperamento & distemperamento elementorum consistere affirmamus.
4. Omnium rerum qualitates, ad usum humanum ac uita salutem creatas esse, tradunt passim eruditii.

CONCLVSIONES QVÆSTIONIS TERTIAE.

1. Quemadmodum ipsis quoque sanis uictus depravatus, ægrotandi occasionem adfert, ita arbitramur magis etiam morbo laborantibus ex erroribus admissis, nouas accessiones fieri.
2. Crisis perfecta, nobis morbi solutionem demonstrat.
3. Raro (ut nos intelligimus) in forti natura crisis nuncius est malus.

CORROLARIA.

1. Omnium sensuum & interiorum & exteriorum, Intellectus non ut sensus, uerum regis in metropoli, officium prebere uidetur.
2. Lætargicos atque phreniticos, solum uitio ventriculorum cerebri infestari, ingenuæ fatemur. Multi, ut tradunt authores, morbi sunt incurabiles, sicuti Elephas & Hydrops, obstanti tamen principio. Medicco ministro naturæ, nullus est morbus qui curari non possit.

AD LECTOREM.

*Quam bonus hic sit congressus, quantumque probetur
Expertæ docti commoditate sciunt.*

*Sensibus à nostris nam quæ, submota uidentur,
Re Democraticæ conueniente spei.*

*Doctorum pugna fuit hinc certa uirorum,
Et medio apparent lucidiora die.*

Hoc quocunque tamen studij laudabile nostri.

Candidus accipias, Lector amice rogo.

Nec me tam famæ, nec me tam laudis egentem

Tantum onus ut proprio Marte tulisse putas:

Sed preceptorum monitis parere necesse est,

Quae maiora quidem non renuisse licet.

In case of fire

A. 1542

The present Library is intended to contain the best specimens of English literature, and to be a valuable addition to the library of any learned society. It is also intended to contain a large number of foreign works,
and particularly those of the United States.
The collection will consist of about 10,000 volumes, and will be arranged in three separate parts, viz., the English part, the American part, and the Foreign part.

COLLECTOR OF THE LIBRARY.

John Green, Esq., of New York, has been appointed Collector of the Library.

He will be responsible for the care and management of the Library, and will be assisted by a Committee of three or four members.
